Low Mileage Plan

This plan is crafted for runners who are easily injured, newer to distance running, thrive on lower volume, or have busy summer schedules! The goal of this plan is to peak at 25-30 miles per week in August before the semester starts. There are some optional time-based workouts included that can be implemented in the final training phase.

Below are sample weekly plan phases with flexibility to add or remove mileage. Aim to gradually work your way up. No greater than 10% mileage increases from week-to-week. Happy training!

Phase I – Base Building! Mid May through end of May

Monday	2-3 miles easy
Tuesday	2-3 miles easy + 4x100m strides
Wednesday	Active recovery day – hot girl walk, bike, etc.
Thursday	2-3 miles easy
Friday	2-3 miles easy
Saturday	5 mile long run
Sunday	Rest day, shakeout, or cross-training!

Phase II – Keep Building Up! Start of June through end of July
